

Health Data Sciences PhD Program Letter of Recommendation

The required letter of recommendation submitted as a part of the Health Data Sciences PhD program application should include - but is not limited to - the following aspects:

- The duration and the circumstances, under which the referee worked with, instructed or supervised the applicant.
- Evaluation of the applicant's overall academic performance.
- Assessment of the applicant's scientific knowledge particularly in relation to the domains of Health Data Sciences (i.e., Epidemiology, Biostatistics, Public Health, Meta-research, and Population Health Science) with examples if applicable.
- Evaluation of the applicant's strengths and weaknesses.
- Assessment of the applicant's potential and motivation to participate in the PhD program
- Any additional aspects that make the applicant a particularly suitable candidate for the program and separates them from the other applicants.
